Huawei launches the TP Controller-- an app offering allowing customers to control Huawei telepresence products via iOS devices.

Using the same UI as Huawei's Android-based telepresence system, the TP Controller provides an easy-to-navigate system for video conferencing system management and control.

Users can also customise personal configurations through the app.

The TP Controller is available from the App Store and compatible with TP1102 and RP series products, as well as future tri-screen telepresence system versions.

Go Huawei Launches iOS Telepresence Touch Control System